Contents

List of Participants
Editors’ Preface

The Crime of Aggression from Nuremberg to the Rome Statute

The Historical Background
Umberto Leanza

Origins of the Criminalisation of Aggression: How Crimes Against Peace Became the “Supreme International Crime”
William A. Schabas

Will Aggressors Ever Be Tried Before The ICC?
Muhammad Aziz Shukri

The Debate Within the Preparatory Commission for the International Criminal Court
Mauro Politi

The International Criminal Court and the Crime of Aggression: Questions of Definition and Jurisdiction

The Definition of the Crime of Aggression and the ICC Jurisdiction over that Crime
Mohammed M. Gomaa

Aggression and the ICC: Views on Certain Ideas and their Potential for a Solution
Phani Dascalopoulou-Livada

Defining the Crime of Aggression or Redefining Aggression?
Ioana Gabriela Stancu

Definition of the Crime of Aggression: State Responsibility or Individual Criminal Responsibility?
Elizabeth Wilmshurst

The Crime of Aggression: Definitional Options for the Way Forward
Hans-Peter Kaul

The Exercise of the International Criminal Court’s Jurisdiction over the Crime of Aggression: Short Term and Long Term Prospects
Antonio Yáñez Barnuevo
The Crime of Aggression and the Relationship between the International Criminal Court and the Security Council

The Respective Roles of the ICC and the Security Council in Determining the Existence of an Aggression
Giorgio Gaja

Reflections on the Role of the Security Council in Determining an Act of Aggression
Saeid Mirzaee Yengejeh

The ICC and the Security Council on Aggression: Overlapping Competencies?
Paula Escarameia

The ICC and the Security Council; about the Argument of Politicisation
Marja Lehto

Conclusions Générales
Luigi Condorelli

Afterword

The International Criminal Court and the Crime of Aggression: from the Preparatory Commission to the Assembly of States Parties and Beyond

An Outsider View
Giuseppe Nesi

An Insider View
Silvia A. Fernández de Gurmendi